

6. How is a learnership registered?

There is a difference between registering a learnership and registering a learner on a learnership. It is the responsibility of the SETA to register a learnership, once the development process has been followed. This means identifying a skills gap, and a qualification to address the gap. The learnership is then registered with the Department of a Labour against that qualification. Registration of a learner on a learnership is generally undertaken by the employer and the learner on the basis of the prescribed procedures and forms of the SETA responsible for that learnership.

[Answer to FAQ 6, The NQF and Learnerships, the NQF Gateway]